A PROMOTIONAL PROSPECT

You have always dreamed of life as a top Journalist. All through school you professed your yearning to be one of the elite, one of the few who had an eye for news, one of the few who could put pen to paper and produce absorbing article, one of the few who could expose scandals and grab exclusives.

At college you took a step forward, one more step in the ladder of your success. Then came a break through, a job with the local Newspaper, a job that would put you on the map.

Unfortunately that was several years ago, the time passes so quickly as you travel towards middle age, you've become a popular name within your hometown but you are still no nearer to your dream. All these years you've avoided long relationships, spent every waking hour at your job, ever aware of a Woman's struggle in what is still a Man's World.

But this morning you awoke with a strange feeling, the feeling that this is it, this is the time you've been waiting for, today you are going to take that final step, the one that will finally put you on the map. Can you do it, can you use your skill and journalist's eye to find the exclusive story you've been waiting for...
